

“Halliburton to Settle Asbestos Claims”

The Wall Street Journal
December 19, 2002

Why Should Congress Help Halliburton Walk Away From A $4 Billion Settlement with Asbestos Victims?

It Shouldn't.

Halliburton loves S.1125, the asbestos corporate bailout bill, because it lets Halliburton break a $4 billion promise to pay asbestos victims for pennies — around $375 million, spread out over 25 years.

Meet the Hazens, one of the families Halliburton is trying to stiff.

That's Tom and Sandy Hazen (above, center), and that's Tom (below), shortly before he died of mesothelioma caused by asbestos at age 58.

Halliburton reached an agreement with the Hazens as part of its commitment.

[Under this bill, Halliburton just walks away, and pays the Hazens nothing.]

S.1125:

A Free Pass for Halliburton and Other Corporate Wrongdoers.

A Nightmare for American Families.
